NO HEADACHE, BAD COLD, SORE STOMACH OR CONSTIVE BOWELS BY MORNING.

Get a 10-cent box now.
You're bilious. You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleansing up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clear; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

VARSITY EDUCATION CHEAP AT MADISON; A YEAR COSTS $500

State Board of Public Affairs Lets It Be Known That State School Is No Harbor of Rich.

Madison, Wis., March 4.—Less than $500 is required to maintain a student in comfort and carry him through a year's work at the University of Wisconsin. This showing the state board of public affairs says that the University of Wisconsin is not to be justly referred to as "A school for rich men's sons."

First print sheets of the long expected report of the survey of the university conducted by the board of public affairs came from the printer today, and consisted of the chapter on the cost of living in Madison.
The board's conclusion "that a moderate sum is sufficient to maintain a student at the University of Wisconsin in complete comfort" is based upon information taken from replies to a questionnaire sent to more than 4,000 students now enrolled in the institution. The total number of replies received was 2,216. Of these replying only 1,474 answered fully all the questions relating to expense. In all cases reported, traveling expenses are included. The report says:

Result of Canvass.
"A majority of the students spend less than $500 per year while attending the University of Wisconsin. Out of 1,474 students who replied, 895 kept their expenses within $500, while 689 spent more than $500. Out of the 895 spending $500 or less 222 spent between $450 and $500, 213 spent between $400 and $450, 108 spent between $350 and $400, 109 spent between $300 and $350, 48 spent between $250 and $300, 3 spent between $200 and $250, 1 spent between $150 and $200, 1 spent between $100 and $150, 169 spent between $50 and $100, 132 spent between $50 and $100, 105 spent between $50 and $100, 78 spent between $50 and $100, 70 spent between $50 and $100, 46 spent between $50 and $100, 22 spent between $50 and $100, 11 spent between $50 and $100, 17 spent between $50 and $100, 8 spent between $50 and $100, 1,000 and $1,100, 8 spent between $1,000 and $1,100, 2 spent between $1,100 and $1,200, 2 spent between $1,200 and $1,300 and 2 spent between $1,300 and $1,400. None of these replying spent more than $1,400.
"Of the 1,474 replying to have spent between $1,300 and $1,400, 283 were residents of Wisconsin, the other was a non-resident student. The resident of Wisconsin spending between $1,300 and $1,400 was a woman in her senior year in the College of Letters and Science. The non-resident student spending $1,300 and $1,400 was a man in his sophomore year in the College of Agriculture.
Few Spend Over $1,000.
"Of the resident students replying only two men reported that they spent over $950, and no man among the resident students is recorded as having spent more than $1,000. Four resident women students reported that they spent more than $1,000. Two of these spent $1,000 and $1,100, one spent $1,100 and $1,200, and one spent between $1,300 and $1,400.
"Of the 1,474 students replying to questions relating to expense of attending the university, 649 were non-resident students. Of these non-residents, 283 kept their expenses within $500, 414 spent more than $500.
"Expenses of graduate students do not appear to reach either extreme, though they average about $500. Of 67 graduate students replying, 39 kept their expenses within $500, 28 spent more than $500. No man taking graduate work spent in excess of $750. Two graduate women students spent more than $750.
"Of the 1,474 students replying to these questions, 1,121 were men and 353 were women. Of the 1,121 men, 662 kept their expenses within $500, 459 spent more than $500. Of the 353 women, 142 kept their expenses within $500, while 210 spent more than $500.
"While it cannot be the policy of a state university to discriminate against a group, rich or poor, this board believes that wide publicity should be given to the fact that investigation has shown that a moderate sum is sufficient to maintain a student at the University of Wisconsin in complete comfort, and that the institution is not to be justly referred to as "A school for rich men's sons."

Sidetrack Fee Bill.
The assembly committee on education laid over until next week the Hambrecht bill to increase the non-resident tuition fees at the University of Wisconsin to $150 and the committee on judiciary laid over for two weeks the Metcalfe bill providing for the semi-monthly payment of wages. A joint hearing will be held with the corporations committee of the senate on this proposition.
TWO BOYS SENT BACK TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL
Two boys residing in the first ward were brought before Judge Maxfield in the juvenile branch of the municipal court this morning after having been taken into custody by the police for the taking of iron from the road machinery owned by the Ryan Contracting company whose implements are on North Washington street. The youths had picked up a quantity of repair bolts, boxes and nuts for the purpose of selling them to junk dealers.
Judge Maxfield, after giving the pair a severe lecture, sent them back to the industrial school in this city, with instructions to remain there.
Ask for Allen's Cough Balsam and take no other. It has fifty years reputation for the quick and permanent relief of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis and all throat troubles. Take home bottles, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 at all druggists. Be sure it's Allen's Cough Balsam.

'THE TYPHOON' AGAIN DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Japanese Drama Portrays the Military Intrigues of Nippon.
"The typhoon," as presented at the Apollo yesterday, is a powerful exposition of the extent to which a subject of Japan will go for the glory and power of Nippon. Death itself is held at naught, honor is put aside, if the result is victory, the advancement of Japanese policies.
Outside of this vital subject it is a fanciful love story between a Japanese diplomat and a Parisian actress. Sessue Hayakawa portrays the role of Tokio and Miss Gladys Brockwell is seen in the role of Helene, the actress in love with the handsome young Japanese.
The audiences yesterday were large and appreciative.

CLARK GRIFFITH OUT FOR PENNANT TITLE WITH NEW SENATORS

Washington's Showing Depends Much on What Action Walter Johnson Will Take This Season.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, March 4.—It's the same old song—"wait 'till next year"—but the fans along the Potomac are joining in stronger on the chorus than they used to.

Now that the dope specialists have assigned Griffith's American League (Senators) to a place among the first four likely candidates for bunting honors next fall, the Old Fox's tie is flocking in from the provinces for the spring training camp at Charlottesville.

Charlottesville is some three hours ride from Washington and the Senators, just why Charlottesville should be selected for this honor have never been learned. In previous years the Nationals have done most of their training in the Fayerweather gymnasium of the University of Virginia and it has been suggested that Griffith train his squad in the local Y. M. C. A. and save carfare.

First Squad Off. The first squad, which departed on February 28, was mostly rookies, with Nick Altrock, Coach Ryan, and Trainer Martin along to chaperon the boys and tuck them into bed at 10 sharp each night. On March 7, Clark Griffith and his regular squad will make its first appearance in the Old Dominion and the spring work will be on.

The first squad to leave included 12 of the likely youngsters on President Minor's payroll, including a couple of newcomers in the shape of two promising young pitchers, Thorpe and Hopper. The other members of the first squad were Engel, Gallia, Shaw, Ayres, Boeding, Harper, Bentley, Pichers, Henry, Adams, Smith and Williams, catchers; and the two coaches.

Seven New Men. On March 7 Griffith will head a delegation, consisting of Walter Johnson, "Chick" Gandil, Morgan, McRide, Foster, Milan, Moeller, Shanks, Redau, Massey, Brown, Reinhard, the last four being newcomers. Pick, Neft and the little Cuban, Acosta.

This gives seven new men to contend with the regulars for positions in the mid-season lineup. Walter Johnson is the pitcher who will not go south with the first squad. Johnson is a wizard at conditioning himself and always rounds into form under the best treatment better than taking the camp routine.

Johnson is expecting another big year and the alleged prejudice against him, caused by Walter's rather carping, league-dumping tactics, is expected to vanish the first time he moves down three in the ninth.

Howard Shanks' position in the outfield is said to be in danger, because of weak hitting and unless he improves, there is a strong possibility that he will occupy the bench for a spell. Second base is also causing Griffith considerable worry. Morgan is expected to vanish the first time he moves down three in the ninth.

Griffith has in addition to the "smoke king," a wonderful trio of right-side flingers, in the shape of Bentley, Boeding and Harper. Bentley, of course, jumped into the limelight with his 11 straight victories back in 1912 and while he has no equalled that record in the two intervening seasons, he is expected to outdo himself the coming year, when every one of the Nationals will be up on his toes, fighting for a big bag of bunting and the very substantial pecuniary and professional reward that goes with it.

Out for Flag. All Washington realize that Clark Griffith is out after the flag this year as he never was before. Things looked pretty black, last winter when it seemed that the Reds had acquired Griffith's big finger, Walter Johnson, but despite the murmurings of unpopularity, it was a very joyful and confident that saw Johnson back safe in the fold and facing a brilliant season.

MILLER TIGERS FALL BEFORE MILLER GIANTS

The Miller Giants slaughtered the Miller Tigers last night at the North Main street alleys. The Giants were 102 pins to the good when the final frame had been filled. The scores:

Talking about syndicate ball, Pat Powers bought the Kansas City Federal franchise and the Kansas City "stockholders" did not know it was for sale until Mr. Gilmore sent them a wire telling them about the deal he had made.

MORRIS MILLER

Here's a new one. The Kansas City club of the American association drafted Sammy Mayer from Savannah of the South Atlantic, but Sammy objects to his new berth on the ground that since the major league can draft but one player from Class A his chances of going up are interfered with. He wants to play in a lower class, where the draft is unrestricted. How are you going to keep a young man with so much confidence down? He should be given Ty Cobb's job at Detroit and end the argument.

Hans Wagner was summoned for jury duty in Pittsburgh. "What is your business?" a lawyer asked him.

"I'm a fish warden." "Is that all you follow?" "No, some people say I'm a ball player, but I don't know whether I am or not."

Manager Birmingham of Cleveland declines to make any predictions regarding the pennant race. He agrees with most of the critics, however, in declaring that Boston, because of its great pitching staff, looks to be the logical pennant winner. "Chicago may be the runner-up," says Joe.

"Eddie Collins is a great addition to my club and Comiskey seems to have picked up a couple of good young outfielders in Roth and Welch. Now, if Harry Lord comes back to play third base and Comiskey's crack pitching staff does not go to the bad, you may have to look out for the White Sox."

Outfielder Tommy Leach, recently released by the Cubs, has signed a one-year contract with Cincinnati. He gets $6,000 and his contract does not contain the salary clause. Leach formerly lived in Cleveland. The Reds may use him on third base.

The Chicago Federal league club has turned loose seven ball players. This recalls the statement made a year ago by the fed moguls that the players who cast their lot with us will be taken care of.

The Indianapolis Reds, who won the championship of the outland league last year, will train at Valdosta, Ga., this spring. The players will go to camp in automobiles, each car being the four-thousand-dollar car presented him by President Gilmore for winning the Red flag.

Dave Fultz objects to the method of asking for waivers and he says he has petitioned the national commission to make another change in its rules. Fultz wants the players notified when waivers are asked on them, it is not likely that such a concession will be made. The Players' Fraternity has been given all the privileges it deserves, for its conduct since the war has been in progress with the Reds has not been along lines to indicate the best interest of the sport at heart.

It is understood that the Federal league will open its season April 10, four days before the major circuits get under way. Whether this will prove an advantage is questionable, for while it may give the new league four days without competition, the real fight for existence will not be on until all the leagues get down to business, then the turnstiles will tell the tale. But the Reds seem particularly anxious to avoid conflicts with some cities that will be impossible, for the majors have two clubs in Boston, Chicago and St. Louis and one of these always is at home.

While the Wards are furnishing the money the Gilmores will fill the paying offices in the Federal league. Freddy Jim Gilmore announces his brother Tom will be the secretary of the league, succeeding Lloyd Rickard, who becomes president of the Sloufeds.

Now that he knows where his team will play ball, Manager Jack Dunn of the Richmond International league club is getting busy at his old tricks of picking up youngsters from the lots and the colleges who later are likely to be heard from in the big leagues. One of his new pitchers is Frank Hoffecker, who was a star with Maryland Agricultural college last season. Roy Shamlin, a left-hander from Huntington, W. Va., recommended by Ezra Midkiff, is another youngster Dunn has signed. Dunn has released Third Baseman Joe Murray to Scranton.

MACK AFTER COLLINS, PITCHER AT FORDHAM.

Bob Collins, the Atlantic City lad who gained fame while pitching for the high school nine at the seashore, is a student at Fordham and is one of the leading candidates for the pitching staff.

Collins attracted the attention of Ira Thomas, the Athletics' captain, a few seasons ago and as Bob is ready to make a break into fast company he will get a trial with the Mackmen. Inlet park last season, while pitching for the seashore collegians, was to hold the hard-hitting Lincoln Giants to one scratch hit.

CARDINALS WILL PLAY GREEN COUNTY RIVALS

Play Monroe Cardinals at Monroe on Friday, and Wisconsin Reserves Here on Saturday.

Two hard games in two nights. That is the schedule that faces the Lakota Cardinals Friday and Saturday night when they defend their honors against the Monroe Cardinals at Monroe and meet the strong Wisconsin Reserves at the Auditorium. The Monroe game is one for revenge and the Lakotas promise to "bring home the bacon" from the Green County city in preparation for the Reserve contest.

Three weeks ago the Cardinals with a crippled lineup invaded Monroe fully confident of trimming their namesake rivals by a good sized score. A Monroe were easy victims here. They meet the surprise of their life when Monroe nosed out a 19 to 18 victory. On this trip the full cardinal team will appear and a neutral referee, who is able to tell a foul during the last ten minutes of play will officiate. Atwood and Dalton will be in the forward positions and it is safe to say that Monroe guards will have more than they can handle to stick to this pair. Elder Ryan and Hemming will constitute the remainder of the team.

There are some reports that the Monroe Cardinals will lose the two crack players from Fond du Lac but the Cardinals hold no fear of dropping the game, with a full team of Cardinal players.

On Saturday night Captain Skinner of the Wisconsin Reserves has guaranteed to beat the Rock county men at the rink. Three of the players who appear here last Saturday, Skinner, Davy and Meyer will appear with two other crack varsity men. The Madison team are good exponents of the game and will furnish a raising battle.

PLASS WILL SCOUT FOR DETROIT CLUB.

Forrest T. Plass, last year manager and part owner of the Dubuque Three club, has been appointed a scout for the Detroit American league club. It will be a merry race between Plass and Clarence Rowland to see which shall beat Dick Kinsella to anything, but with hearts good in the Three league. In the meantime Chick Fraser, another former Three-man manager, will be picking up good ones for Pittsburgh.

Manager Herzog of the Reds will be back at his old position this year if present plans carry out. Buck originally was a third baseman, and with the acquisition of Olson from Cleveland, intends going over to the far corner.

THE GOOD JUDGE UNDERSTANDS AND KNOWS THEY WILL APPRECIATE IT.

JUDGE: LET'S MOVE. THAT FELLOW'S JAW LOOKS AS IF HE HAS MUMPS. HE OUGHT TO BE QUARANTINED.

THAT'S JUST WHAT HE THINKS ABOUT YOU'LL TELL YOU BOTH ABOUT THE LITTLE REAL TOBACCO CHEW THAT SATISFIES.

I'D HATE FOR MY FRIENDS TO SEE ME LOOKING LIKE HIM.

LOOKS are often deceiving. In the old days everybody could spot the tobacco chewer just by the hump in his cheek.

"Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew, gives men fine, satisfying tobacco comfort—and nobody can notice that they are chewing.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it goes and stays in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"September Morn." The expected has happened and a big, new musical play has been at the Myers Theatre.

"September Morn." has materialized as a musical comedy hit frames in series of pretty stage pictures instead of dear old Nature as the only environment. To tell the naked truth "September Morn." has been pressed into service as the subject for a jolly, good and funny show with special jingly music on the side and a dancing singing coterie of Tango girls in the lively chorus numbers. Leo Greenwood, the chief comedy peddler with a company of forty assisting, Hazel Shannon is a delight and Elsie Bairs a big favorite.

Rowland & Clifford are given credit for exploiting the biggest and best of all fun shows. The attraction but recently closed a sensation at the La Salle Opera House, Chicago.

September Morn will be seen at Myers Theatre, Friday, March 5.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Potash and Perlmutter." The most famous cloak and suit laugh makers in the world, have left their quarters in the Colman Theatre, New York City, after two remarkable seasons and are making a tour of the country, where they play their goods to millions of patrons who could not get to New York to see them. They will open up shop at the Myers Theatre on Friday, March 12, but their stay is limited to one evening, therefore it is advisable to put in orders in advance. To accommodate the rush of buyers the box-office of the Myers Theatre will be opened Monday evening, March 8. A. H. Woods, who put the boys into business, is going along with them not only all their original designs but in fact their entire staff, including designers, models, cutters, pressers, salesmen, lawyer and even their friends and family. Their tour so far has been a triumphant one for Abe and Morris are known everywhere by reputation as fine fellows, as lovable as they are laughable—keen business men, but with hearts of gold. Their visit will be a notable event and it is only regrettable that their stay is necessarily limited to one evening.

Fred Clark has excused three players from taking the spring trip. They are Herbert Kelly, student at Notre Dame; Joe Conzelmann, who is attending Columbia University, and Syd Smith, catcher, who is coaching at the University of South Carolina. Looks like there ought to be a lot of brains on the Pittsburgh squad this summer.

PUBLICITY AN ASSET.

Publicity is an asset to any line of business, be it governmental or private, and the general public gain confidence when they are told the truth without red tape and restrictions, denials and contradictions. An exchange, in commenting upon this subject, says:

"Admitting the needlessness of multiplied investigations, and that in some cases such investigations have been merely instituted in the hope of creating political ammunition, there is still need for a word of warning. In the case of certain witnesses of corporations, who need not be more particularly specified, there has been a tone of flippancy which cannot be condoned by the impertinence of some of the questions."

"In the same way on one or two recent occasions there has been a resort to an objectionable kind of secretiveness which is in the last degree unfortunate, and tends to perpetuate an agitation which seemed in a fair way to subside. When an industrial corporation's report is sufficiently well known in Wall Street for a week before it is published, and if it is only published when an enterprising news service forces the hand of the management, the indispensable lesson of publicity has not been learned."

"Lest we forget, it must once more be repeated that publicity is the true protection against persecution. The public will readily realize that when reports are so prompt, and full as to leave nothing to investigate, investigating committees become a glaring imposture. The public may be fairly trusted to express itself accordingly at the polls, and it will do so in the measure that corporations show they have nothing to conceal."

"Once for all, the days when a corporation officer could deny absolutely a report with a solid basis of truth have gone and they should not be restored. If a railroad president refuses to be interviewed, or to make a statement, he is strictly within his rights, and his duty as he sees it. But if he denies what is true, he commits an act of treason against his own class, and one which puts in the hands of the politician and the demagogue their most dangerous weapons."

"It is manifest that the innocent suffer for the sins of the guilty. Because a very few railroads in the past were over-capitalized, which is true, the agitator has been able to persuade many people that the railroads of the United States as a whole are over-capitalized, which is absurdly false. These, like other corporations, are, in the main, honestly run with a decent respect for public opinion. It is the small minority which is the danger."

"Banking houses which tolerate objectionable practices in the corporations they have financed, have only themselves to thank if the politician regards them as a fair mark."

HONOR TO TAFT.

The Christian Science Monitor pays a tribute to former President William Howard Taft, when it says:

"President Wilson is fortunate in having in a predecessor in his high office a patriot and not a partisan. The formally voiced rebuke by former President Taft of all persons now critical of the administration's foreign policy, which criticism often is obviously interested rather than disinterested, will be appreciated by citizens of the country who see the need at the present hour of counsels that are unifying. In so far as Professor Taft is influential within his own party, it will probably take its cue and act as he advises: for a contrary course would be as strategically impolite as it would be unpatriotic, a fact which the republican leader in the house of representatives, James R. Mann of Illinois, frankly admitted last week in using his influence to make impossible present discussion in congress of any differences of opinion between the United States and Japan."

It is also true that the neutrality question as seen by a jurist and former national executive, nothing else that he said had the practical value of this summons of the people to rise above racial, partisan and commercial prejudices and interests and thus release responsible officials of the nation from abuse at a time when all their thought should be free to meet with wisdom and courage the tests of an unprecedented situation.

"Popular feeling and popular conscience will unite to make unusually restrictive the force of public opinion against persons of racial or partisan groups that venture to run counter to the line of duty outlined by Professor Taft. Neither he nor his successor in office expects that criticism will wholly cease, nor would they prohibit it if they had the power. But if made, it should have pure motives back of it, and must expect to be tested searchingly."

MICHAEL HAYES.

In the death of Michael Hayes the city has lost more than a representative business man. Mr. Hayes possessed strong convictions on questions pertaining to civic righteousness, and he had the courage to express them without fear or favor. When the city was passing through the transition period between the old and new form of government, and lawlessness seemed to be in control, Mr. Hayes was prominent in the movement for a law and order committee to back the mayor in efforts to enforce the law.

There are plenty of good people in every community, and a few who represent more than the simple grace of goodness. Mr. Hayes belonged to this limited class. He combined with simple honesty the spirit of enterprise which made him a public-spirited citizen. Successful himself, his judgment commanded respect, and his influence contributed to the stability of the city. He was an approachable man and his generous impulses made him a friend of the people.

The impress of his life will long linger as a tribute to his memory, and while the marble shaft marks his final resting place, the noble spirit of the man who wrought with us will continue to be felt for good.

Pro-German publications resent any implication that the invading hosts of Teutons behaved in anything but a five o'clock tea manner towards the inhabitants of the country whose land they despoiled. Meanwhile reports to the contrary will creep into print although sometimes the Germans are not entirely to blame for conditions that are reported to exist.

The golden west is calling the tourists these spring days and reports show that the railroads are having an excess of travel toward the Pacific slope that formerly journeyed towards Europe. Just at present California is a far safer and more healthful climate than the tourist routes through the continent.

Repeat that one mill tax now given the state university and compel that institution to present a budget, is the cry that reaches the legislature from all parts of the state. Perhaps it will at that as the legislature is prepared for radical legislation as regards the university without crippling its efficiency.

Congress has completed its work and holds the record for long distance legislation on everything along the line of democratic reform. The next congress will be more conservative in composition and we may not expect as many differences of opinion exhibited as in the past two years.

Thus far the Dardanelles have not been entirely conquered by the allied fleet. It may come later, but thus far the bombardment has merely knocked at the outer door, as it were, while the inner forts still remain safe and sound guarding the Turkish capital.

The average ball player can not understand how there should be any question that they obtain good berths on the team they are playing with at the spring training quarters, but when the process of elimination is well under way they may discover their mistake.

While the joint legislative committee has not as yet made any startling disclosures in the past few days, they are grinding away in their investigations and the result will be surprising to the state as a whole when it is completed.

The echo of Trotterman's resignation has not yet been heard. It will come soon and then the people of the state will understand why the cry against the extravagant mismanagement of affairs on University hill has been so persistent.

The Janesville Park association has filled the vacancies on its board of directors by naming two well known farmers as members. It is a step in the right direction and will be most beneficial to the association as a whole.

Why not divide the larger wards of Janesville—the first, third and fourth—into two wards each, and secure a proper representation on the county board in consequence.

These are strenuous days at Madison and the average legislator is now realizing what it means to go down to Madison to make and unmake laws for the whole state.

The average scoffer is now laughing at the prediction that more snow is coming and that spring is yet several weeks away.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF IT IS FALLING OR FULL OF DANDRUFF--25 CENT DANDERINE

LADIES! MEN! HERE'S THE QUICKEST, SUREST DANDRUFF CURE KNOWN.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

THE LADY AND THE PIRATE

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1913, by Emerson Hough

I could foresee embarrassments in further conversation with Jimmy in his present truculent mood, so sought out others less contentious and gave orders for the striking of the camp and the embarkment of all in the small boats. I left Peterson and Willy to take the ladies and most of the duffel in the large boat, assigned John the dinghy for his cook boat and decided to pole the light draft duck boat over the shallows direct to the yacht, taking my two associates with me. It was necessary, of course, to carry our fair passengers out to the longboat, which was some distance out on the flat beach. Peterson and I made a cradle for Mrs. Danvers with our locked hands and so got her substantial weight aboard. Helena mutely waited, but seeing her so and unwilling myself to be so near to her any more I motioned her to step into the flat duck boat, dry shod, and so poled her out to the longboat. But I did so in silence, nor did she look up or speak to me.

Later Jimmy said: "We won't never get no chance like this again. Why, looky here, we was regular castaways on a real desert island, and we had an abandoned ship, and we'd 'a' lived chiefly by hunting and fishing, and we had evaded all pursuit and run off with the fair captive to a place of hiding—why, it's all just like in the book. And what do we do? Why, we go home! Wouldn't it frost you? And, what's worse, we let the heartless jade get away with it too! Ain't that so?"

"Yes, that's true, Jimmy," I replied. "Well, I was talking to Jean Lafitte—but it's so. We started out all right as pirates, but now we let a girl blind us."

"What would you do, Jimmy, in a case like that?" I inquired.

"I would wring the wench's slender neck, beshrew me! She couldn't put over none of that coarse work on me. No, curses on her fair face!"

"That will do, Jimmy!" said I, and pushed on in silence, Jean Lafitte very grave and Jimmy snuffling, now, in his grief at leaving the enchanted island.

In half an hour we were under way, and in an hour and a half, having circumvented our long desert island, we were passing through the cutoff which led us back into Cote Blanche, some fifty miles, I presume, from what was to be our voyage's end.

CHAPTER XXII.

In Which is Philosophy, Which, However, Should Not Be Skipped.

WE passed on steadily to the northward until mid-afternoon, making no great headway with one propeller missing, but leaving the main gull steadily, and at length, raising a faint blue loom on the sky, the long oak crowned heights of those singular geological formations, the heights known as "Islands," that bound the head of this great bay.

Perhaps it was Edouard Manning, planter, miner, sportsman, gentleman, traveler, scholar and host, who first taught me what wealth might mean, may mean, ought to mean. Always, before now, I had approached his home with joy, as that of an old friend. There I knew I would find horses, guns, dogs, good sport and a simple welcome, and I could read or ride as I preferred—a king among all the cousins of Jean Lafitte, M. Edouard. Hereabout ran the old causeway by which the wagon reached the "importations" of Jean's barges, brought inland from his schooners hid in the marshes far below. Here, too, as is well known in all the state, was the burying ground of Jean Lafitte's treasure chests, for, though the old adventurer sold silks and tobaccos and sugars very cheap to the planters and traders, he secreted, as is well known, great store of plate bullion and minted coins at divers points about the several miles of forest covered heights, so that the very atmosphere thereabout—till custom stales it for the visitor who comes often there—reeks with the flavor of pieces of eight, Spanish doubloons and rare gems of the orient.

But now, as I saw myself once more approaching this pleasant spot so well known to me, I felt little of the old thrill of eagerness come over me. True, M. Edouard would be charmed to meet the woman whose influence on my life he knew so well. Yes, I could tell him everything easily, nicely, except the truth, which was that I was bringing to another man's arms the woman whom he knew I loved. No, the blue loom of Manning's island gave me no joy now. I wished it 3,000 miles away instead of thirty. I wished that almost anything might prevent my arrival—accident, delay.

And then, in the most natural way in the world, there were both. Without much warning the pulse of our engine slackened, the throb of our single screw slowed down and ceased. Williams stuck his head up out of his engine room and shouted something to Peterson, who methodically drew out his pipe and made ready for a smoke.

"It's no use going any farther," explained Williams when I came up. "That intake's gone wrong again, and she's got sand all through her. It's a crime to see her cut herself all to pieces this way. We've just got to stop and clean her up, that's all, and fix the job right. Ought to have done it back there before we started in."

"How long will it take, Williams?" I asked.

"Oh, I don't know, sir! More than this afternoon, sure."

"That's too bad," said I, with a fair imitation of regret. "We had expected to make Manning island by night."

I dispatched L'Olonnois as messenger to the ladies, telling them the cause of our delay and explaining how difficult it was to say just when we would get in to the island, and then I betook myself to gloomy pacing up and down what restricted part of the deck I felt free for my own use. I wandered of it soon and went to my cabin, trying to read.

At first I undertook one of the modern novels which had been recommended by my bookseller, but I found myself unable to get on with it and, standing before my shelves, took down one volume after another of philosophers who once were wont to comfort me—men with brains, thinking men who had done something in the world besides buying yachts and country houses. My eye caught a page which earlier I had turned down, and I read again:

"Trust thyself; every heart vibrates to that iron string. Accept the place that Divine Providence has found for you—the society of friends, the connection of events. Great men have always done so and confided themselves childlike to the genius of their age. . . . And we now are men and must accept in the highest mind the same transcendent destiny, and not pinched in a corner nor cowed by feeling before a revolution, but redeemers and benefactors, plous aspirants to be noble clay, under the Almighty effort let us advance on chaos and the dark."

I read the mystic, involved, subjective words again, as most of the Concord sage's words require, and reflected how well they jumped with the note of my heathen Epictetus, who had said, "Be natural and noble." And so thinking, I began to wonder whether after all my father, whose ruthless ways I had sometimes explored, whose ruthless aims I had sometimes atoned, had not been perhaps a better man than sometimes I had credited him with being. He in accordance with his lights had accepted the part given him by the poet of the play. He had confided himself childlike to the genius of his age, roaring, fighting, scrambling, getting and sometimes giving. He had trusted himself, and in the end, a bold man, he had advanced bravely on chaos and the dark. Dear old governor! I did not regret the million of his money I had spent to restore his memory clear in my own mind, for after all it had all been in open war—that time when he unloaded a worthless mine on his friend Dan Emory—Helena's father, Daniel Emory, who was at first said to have left his family penniless, until a shrewd lawyer in some miraculous way had managed to sell at a good price a box full of worthless mining stock to some innocent victim.

Helena Emory never knew of that sale, nor did her guardian aunt. I did know of it, for the very good reason that I was both the shrewd lawyer and the innocent purchaser. It was the last act of my professional career, and it was this which caused the general report that I had made a bad mining venture, had lost my father's fortune and retired from my career a ruined man. A few friends knew otherwise, and I blessed the rumor which cost me certain friends who thought me poor and so forsook me. Perhaps my father would have called me quixotic had he known. Now as I read and pondered I neither blamed him for his own course in fair business war with old Dan Emory, nor did I censure myself for my own hidden act of resolution. Let the world war its head if it liked and remain ignorant of other millions given to me before my father's death, unprobated, secret, after the fashion of my pirate parent, who buried his treasures and told none but his kin how they might be found.

Of course in time it all might come out. In time Helena would know that this yacht which she supposed to be Davidson's was my own; that the farm I was supposed to have rented really was a handsome estate that I owned; that many covert deeds in finance had been my own. It was only my silence and my absence in many parts of the world which had prevented her, also much a traveler, from knowing the truth about me long ago, and the truth was I was not a poor man, but a rich one.

I took up another book at another marked page: "Let us learn to be content with what we have. Let us get rid of our false estimates, set up all the higher ideals—a quiet home, vines of our own planting, a few books full of the inspiration of genius, a few friends worthy of being loved, a hundred innocent pleasures that bring no pain or remorse, a devotion to the right that will never swerve, a simple religion empty of all bigotry, full of trust and hope and love—and to such a philosophy this world will give up all the empty joy it has."

I meditated over this also, applying these tests to my own life. Ah, now I saw why my foot was ever restless, why I sought always new scenes. Where was my quiet home, the vines of my own planting? Would I flee from that to every corner of the world? Not if it held the woman of my choice. Would she thus roam restless if she held the heart of her chosen and if they had a home?

I did not hear Jimmy when he came in, and when he spoke I jumped, startled.

"Black Bart!" said Jimmy. "Say, we have held a council."

"Who has?"

"Why, me and Jean Lafitte and the heartless jade. I told her you sent us to her to bid her seek your presence."

"Jimmy! What on earth do you mean? That's precisely the last thing I would have done. I haven't done it. On the contrary—"

"I told her," he resumed calmly, "that when Black Bart, the pirate, spoke, he spoke to be obeyed. She said, 'I can't go, and I said, 'You gotta go.'"

"You yourself may now go and tell her that there has been a very bad mistake, Jimmy, and that she need not come."

"And make her cry worse? I ain't going to do it!"

"Sir, this is mutiny! But did she cry, Jimmy?"

"Yes, awful. She said she was homesick. She ain't. I don't know what really is the matter. I ask Jean Lafitte, and he said maybe you'd know. We thought maybe it was something about you varlet. Do you know?"

"No, I do not, Jimmy."

"Don't you just jolly well awfully love the fair captive, you heartless jade—my Auntie Helen? Don't you, Black Bart?"

I made no answer, but frowned very much at his presumption.

"Because everybody else does. She's nice. I should think you would. I do, I know mighty well."

"She is—she is—she's a very estimable young woman, Jimmy," said I, colorless.

ortag. "I think I may say that without compromising myself."

"Then why do you hurt her feelings the way you do when she's plumb gone on you the way she is?"

I sprang toward him to clap a hand over his garrulous mouth, but he evaded me and spoke from behind the bathroom door. "Well, she is! Don't I hear her sticking up for you all the time? Didn't I hear her and Auntie Lucinda having a regular row over it again? 'I don't care if he hasn't got a cent!' says she."

"But you varlet is rich," said I.

"She didn't mean you varlet. She meant you, I'm pretty sure, Black Bart. And she's been feeding Partial all the afternoon. Say, he's the shape of a sausage."

"She is heartless, Jimmy! Little do you know the ways of a heartless jade. She wants to win away from me the last thing on earth I have—even my dog. That's all. Now, Jimmy, you must go."

But he emerged only in part from his shelter. "So Jean Lafitte and me, we looked it up in the book, and it says where the heartless jade is brought before the pirate chief, 'How now, fair one?' says he, and he bends on her the piercing gaze o' his little eye. 'How now—wouldst thou spurn me suit?' The fair captive she bends her head and stands before him unable to encounter his piercing gaze, and for some moments a deep silence prevails."

Worth Knowing. Here is an excellent cure for asthma: Iodide potash, one ounce; compound spirits of lavender, two ounces; fluid extract rosan weed, two ounces; distilled water, one quart; best alcohol, one ounce. Dose, teaspoonful in three teaspoonfuls of water after meals and at bedtime. Let distilled water cool, then add ingredients.

Dinner Stories

to resist an attempt to kiss her, but the rehearsal was far from satisfactory.

"Think, now," said the director, coaching her; "haven't you ever tried to stop a young man from kissing you?"

"No," was the girl's frank reply.

Said a western mining man: "We have a bachelor's mess in the mining camp where I'm located and we usually have a Chinaman to do the cooking. Some of the Orientals are fine cooks, other they get over a few of the peculiar ideas they have imbibed from their own country's oddities in the culinary line."

"Not long ago we got a new Chinaman as cook. A couple of days later one of the fellows got a pedigreed Irish terrier pup given to him."

Many Juvenile Readers. More than seven and a half million books are lent by London public libraries in a year, the juvenile readers taking considerably over a million.

Pretty Compliment. Betty had a habit of handling anything she thought was pretty. One day her aunt told her if she saw anything pretty she should keep her hands at her side and not touch it. Betty immediately dropped her hands at her side and looked up at her aunt and said, "Auntie, I'm looking at you."

The second annual Rock county Old Boys' Y. M. C. Plans have been about completed for the big conference, in which seventy-eight different boys from throughout the county are to take part on the various programs in basketball games and other activities. The program is to include numerous musical features, and every meeting is to be for boys, by boys, and in the interest of boys.

The delegations in all will make up about two hundred men and boys, the latter in the majority. Janesville is to send twenty delegates out of the entire number. They are: Stewart Lamb, Darrell Sullivan, J. ## DEPARTMENT PRUNING LEGISLATURE'S PLAN

Consolidation of Various Boards Will Eliminate Many Employees and Induce Expense Elimination.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 4.—The consolidation of the fish commission with the fish and game department; the placing of many of the departments under the abolition of work under one head and the abolition of several other departments occupied the legislative committee investigating the departmental state departments yesterday afternoon. The committee spent four hours in executive session at the Gov. Phillip going over some of the bills that have been drafted to accomplish this purpose.

It has practically been decided to consolidate the fish commission and the game warden's department, said a member of the committee today. The committee has not yet decided upon. For example, the oil inspection department will be placed under the dairy and food department, according to this member of the committee, but this committee is undecided as to whether the duties of the state health department and the state dairy and food commission could be merged under one head. In justice to the dairy interests of the state it was pointed out that the name "dairy and food commission" would probably be retained. It is also probable that the treasury agent will be placed under the industrial commission. This department now has charge of free department offices, and it is said to do a character of work that could be shifted to another department and save much expense.

Many of the bills for consolidations will be reported back to the house and senate next week so that hearings may be held and the work of the legislature brought to a close.

STATE FAIR BUDGET IS CONSIDERED TODAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., March 4.—The joint finance committee of the legislature this afternoon considered the necessity for and size of the state fair appropriation. The board met with the legislative committee of the state board of agriculture, H. H. Peavy, Washington, chairman; Ira M. J. Chryst, Burlington, and W. B. McCaul, Tomah, Wisconsin, members. The committee will fully explain the condition and needs of the board and probably accept the recommendations of the finance committee in asking for an appropriation.

The state board of agriculture will meet here Friday morning. The report of the classification committee which is arranging the premium list for the 1915 fair will be an important subject for discussion.

In a statement issued by the board, it says:

"The board believes that if the state of Wisconsin will this year reasonably equip the state fair, it will not only be able to pay expenses out of receipts, but with each future fair, with good weather, earn sufficient profits to in future meet the expense of permanent improvements."

Correcting Childish Defect.

Most children at some time or other will contort their faces or cross their eyes. If this habit is allowed, frowns become permanent and eyes glide. It is a good thing to let a child see himself when pulling his face. He will not be proud of his looks. It is a good plan to appeal to a child's pride, as proper pride is an excellent quality.
